

Wash'er, Clothes. The Keystone washer, Fig. 2525, has its frame and rollers so arranged that the machine can be attached to the ordinary tub. The washing is done by the united pressure and friction of the corrugated and ribbed rollers between which the clothes have to pass. A lively pressure is insured by the spiral springs above.

Fig. 2525.

Keystone Washer.