

The total annual cotton output in the Huai River valley is five times that of the early post-Liberation figure.

