

Opportunities for CS students to Join IBM's Co-Op Team

There are 2 open positions for the Test/Automation team and 1 open position for the Software Development team. For the Test/Automation team IBM is looking for candidates with some/basic programming and command line knowledge. The Software Development team is seeking a candidate with extensive experience in Java. These are just some of a few but strong traits that would make an ideal candidate.

Attached is a link to the application and also a more in depth description of the available positions and a description of how to apply.
